IBSF ImpACT concussion baseline testing 2019/2020

The IBSF is serious about athlete welfare. Head injuries and concussions can be serious and lead to long lasting medical problems. To look after athlete safety it is compulsory since the 2015/16 season that all athletes complete an online ImpACT concussion test before they receive an IBSF License.

This means that after completing the test the athletes and the IBSF will have a baseline result that should the athlete receive a concussion can then be used to help them safely return to sliding. As part of clinical examination this neurocognitive assessment tool can help medical personal to determine safe return to play decisions on comparison between baseline and post-injury tests.

IBSF ImpACT baseline testing procedure

All athletes need to do the baseline test to get an IBSF license. After completing the test, IBSF will be informed and will validate the license within 1-2 working days. The test is available in 17 languages and is free of charge for the athlete as well as the National Federation. The costs will be covered by IBSF.

Step 1: The National Federation saves the e-license and then informs the athlete about the concussion test (can also be done prior to licensing).

Important notice

All athletes that already did the ImpACT baseline test (test date after 01/04/2018) and were licensed the previous season 2018/19 will automatically be confirmed, as a baseline test is currently only mandatory every two years. However, for athletes under the age of 18 the baseline test is mandatory every year (test date after 01/04/2019 for season 2019/20).

Step 2: The athlete needs to complete the online concussion baseline test (can also be done prior to licensing). After that the e-license will be activated by the IBSF within 1-2 working days.

Step 3: If an athlete has a concussion at the track they are required to go through the IBSF “Fit to slide” - procedure.

Step 4: The Medical Check can determine if the athlete should do a re-test (Post injury test).

Step 5: IBSF will temporarily un-license the athlete (due to missing “Fit to slide” information)

Step 6: The “Fit to slide” form has to be presented to reactivate the license – this is not connected to the re-test itself or the result of the re-test. The doctor who fills in the “Fit to slide” form is recommended to use the re-test results as the basis for his/her declaration on the form, but is not obliged to do so.

Introductions to do the baseline testing (please share with your athletes before taking the baseline test!)

- This is not an IQ test. The test will establish your personal baseline to compare to if you sustain an injury.
- Please do not do the test within 3 hours after strenuous physical exertion. It is better to do the testing before the training.
- Do not have any other programs open on the computer.
- Turn off and put away cell phones and electronics.
- This is a timed test. Once you begin, you cannot take any breaks. To complete the whole test takes about 25-30 Minutes.
- Read instructions for each module carefully.
- Do your best to complete each test module as quickly and accurately as possible.
- Please note the correct format of your date of birth (MM/DD/YYYY) as with a wrong format the system will not continue.
- You aren't expected to answer every question correctly. If you miss a question, don't worry and just continue on with the test.
- Do not exit the test until the confirmation page is reached. It will display your confirmation number and Passport ID. Save Passport ID (unique 12-digit code) so doctors can access your tests if you give them the number.
- Testing environment: quiet room with the door closed, if possible, close blinds to minimize outside distractions
